

Yes, I think this website is good.

The structure is organized by headings. Moreover, the website shows credible links and the links are not dead ends

Its not a good website

because the structure is all over the place. Also they could make less categories and put some that relate in one

I think this is ^{not} a good website because it has a lot of information for people, but there are inappropriate pictures and that is not good for kids. Another reason is that the copyright date does not seem up to date, so there may be some more interesting information that is discovered in 2016 that isn't on the website.

This website is helpful because it has a lot of information about the revolutionary war. It also has links which give you more info. about that link.
